FROM THE DESK OF FR. GLASS:

How can I keep from singing?

The first poets sang their words to the harp or to some such instrument, and that is why poetry differs from prose. The moment you introduce music you change everything, even the natural order of words. The language of verse will be keyed higher than the language of prose, even for its most ordinary purposes. Though the harp is superseded, the voice never forgets it. — Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch

It is not often that I have the opportunity to see how Mass is celebrated in other places. In my recent visit with family in Ottawa I concelebrated weekday Mass at the local parish. What stood out for me was the absence of chant: nothing was sung except the Alleluia before the Gospel. I had forgotten that in most parishes this is normal, and what we do here at Fatima is exceptional.

It ought not to be! The parts of the Mass are meant to be sung — they are, first and foremost, chants. The General Instruction of the Roman Missal states:

There is an ancient proverb: "Whoever sings well prays twice over." Great importance should therefore be attached to the use of singing in the celebration of the Mass. Although it is not always necessary (e.g., in weekday Masses) to sing all the texts that are in principle meant to be sung, every care should be taken that singing by the ministers and the people not be absent in celebrations that occur on Sundays and on Holydays of Obligation. The main place should be given, all things being equal, to Gregorian chant, as being proper to the Roman Liturgy.

The Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy of the Second Vatican Council emphasizes the importance of singing:

The musical tradition of the universal Church is a treasure of inestimable value, greater even than that of any other art. The main reason for this pre-eminence is that, as sacred song united to the words, it forms a necessary or integral part of the solemn liturgy.

Now, the Instruction concedes that at times singing may not be possible. For example, we may not have a cantor to sing the Psalm, or I may lose my voice and not be able to sing the Preface. And if a Pastor personally prefers that the liturgical chants be recited rather than sung he is still within the guidelines. Nevertheless, it is self-evident that what is meant to be sung ought to be sung.

The faithful have a right to have Mass celebrated according to the Roman Missal, but the Missal offers many equally valid options from which the celebrant is free to choose. And it is not necessary that the chants be sung. But as the old-time hymn has it: "The peace of Christ makes fresh my heart, a fountain ever springing; all things are mine since I am his — how can I keep from singing?"
